

Left: Person, Elk and Crow-painted lodge designs are seen at this Sun Dance camp just outside of Browning around 1940. Mike Swims Under said this was a different Person-painted lodge from the one his parents received from the North Pikunni, and were then also using.
